Final Decision

Appeal of:

Walter Thomas

Matter No:

MCU No. 409467; ODAI No. FY0416

Date:

June 21, 2004

Arnold R. Finlayson, Esq., Director, Office of Documents and Administrative Issuances, participated in the preparation of this decision.

INTRODUCTION

This matter is before the Secretary of the District of Columbia for a final decision on the merits of the administrative appeal filed by Mr. Walter Thomas (hereinafter the "appellant") with the Office of the Mayor. The instant appeal, which was brought under the District of Columbia Freedom of Information Act ("D.C.-FOIA"), D.C. Official Code §§ 2-531 et seq. (2001), is

Pursuant to Mayor's Order 97-177, dated October 9, 1997, the Secretary of the District of Columbia was delegated the authority vested in the Mayor to render final decisions on certain administrative appeals and petitions for review.

Pursuant to section 207(a) of the D.C.-FOIA, "[a]ny person denied the right to inspect a public record of a public body may petition the Mayor to review the public record to determine from the Office of the Chief Financial Officer's ("OCFO") blanket denial of the appellant's D.C.-FOIA request for certain categories of information pertaining to the selection of candidates to fill employment vacancies which were advertised under two job announcements issued by OCFO's Office of Human Resources ("OHR").

BACKGROUND

The appellant was formerly employed in a unit of OCFO which, due to a restructuring of certain operations, was abolished (including all of the positions therein) via an administrative order.

In a letter from OHR's Director, dated December 12, 2002, the appellant received notice of the availability of vacant positions in a newly-created unit of OCFO and was advised that "interested persons [would] have an opportunity to apply for consideration." Letter dated December 12, 2002 from D. Camillen, Director, OHR to W. Thomas.

By letter dated July 21, 2003, the appellant made a D.C.-FOIA request to OCFO's FOIA Officer which sought the disclosure of the following information:

1. Rating and ranking sheet used by the Personnel Specialist who reviewed the application packages submitted by the applicants for the Lead Support Specialist, job announcement AD-RS-MA017 and the Program Analyst DS-343-14.

whether it may be withheld from public inspection." D.C. Official Code $\S 2-537(a)$ (emphasis added).

- 2. The complete application packages submitted by the person chosen for the vacant positions advertised by job announcement AD-RS-MA017 and the Program Analyst DS-343-14.
- List of applicants interviewed for the positions advertised by AD-RS-MA017 and the Program Analyst DS-343-14.
- 4. Certification of qualified applicants for each position advertised by vacancy announcement No. AD-RS-MA017 and the Program Analyst DS-343-13.
- 5. Identity of the interview panel members for each applicant interviewed for the positions advertised by vacancy announcement No. AD-RS-MA017 and the Program Analyst DS-343-14.
- 6. Copy of all questions used by the interview panel members to question applicants for the positions advertised by AD-RS-MA017 and the Program Analyst DS-343-14.
- 7. Copy of the notes made and kept by the interview panel members for vacancy announcement No. AD-RS-MA017 and the Program Analyst DS34314[sic].
- 8. Identity of the selection panel or selecting official(s) who chose the applicants for the positions advertised by vacancy announcement No. AD-RS-MA-017 and the Program Analyst DS-343-14.
- 9. If the positions that were advertised by vacancy announcement No. AD-RS-2MA017 [sic] were not filled and the Office of the Chief Financial Officer continued to seek applicants after the vacancy announcement closed, provide a copy of the announcement for the position that was still vacant.

Letter dated July 21, 2003 from W. Thomas to A. Washington, FOIA Officer, OCFO.

OCFO's response to the appellant's July 21, 2003 correspondence came in a letter from its Disclosure Counsel, dated December 1, 2003, which denied the D.C.-FOIA request in its entirety citing D.C. Official Code §§ 2-534(a)(2) and (4), without further elaboration, as the reason for its determination.³

The full text of the portion of the Disclosure Counsel's letter which stated the grounds for the denial of the appellant's D.C.-FOIA request was contained in the first paragraph which read as follows:

Subsequently, in a letter dated January 12, 2004, the appellant renewed his request for information within the scope of his initial D.C.-FOIA request and asked for "a full explanation of why that information [was being] restricted." Letter dated January 12, 2004 from W. Thomas to R. James. Shortly thereafter, the present appeal was initiated.

On appeal, the appellant states that "[t]he situation at issue involves action by public officials who have either used the personnel process legally or illegally." Appeal Letter at p.2. According to the appellant, his "request is for material that was used in connection with the personnel selection process. The emphasis of my request is for the sake of honesty and transparency, as they relate to personnel policies, regulations and the law." Id.

Following a general overview of the legal principles underlying the D.C.-FOIA, this decision considers the propriety of

In response to your Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request dated July 21, 2003 relating specifically to the list submitted requesting several items associated with your employment application and interview. [sic] We have reviewed your request and determined that items # 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 are exempt under DC Code §§ 2-534(a)(2) and (4)(Deliberative Process Privilege). With regard to item #9, please note that I understand that the vacancy was filled.

Letter dated December 1, 2003 from R. James, Disclosure Counsel, OCFO, to W. Thomas.

OCFO's response to the appellant's D.C.-FOIA request.

DISCUSSION

The D.C.-FOIA, like the federal FOIA upon which it was modeled, was enacted in 1976 to divest government officials of broad discretion in determining what, if any, government records should be made available to the public upon the receipt of a request for information. See Subcommittee on Administrative Practice & Procedure of the Senate Committee on Judiciary, 95th Cong., 2d. Sess., Freedom of Information:

A Compilation of State Laws (Comm.Print 1978); see also

Washington Post v. Minority Business Opportunity Commission,
560 A.2d 517, 521 (D.C. 1989). In this regard, the D.C.-FOIA was "designed to promote the disclosure of information, not inhibit it." Id.

The D.C.-FOIA embodies "[t]he public policy of the District of Columbia . . . that all persons are entitled to full and complete disclosure of information regarding the affairs of government and the official acts of those who represent them as public officials and employees." D.C. Official Code § 2-531; see Donahue v. Thomas, 618 A.2d 601, 602 n.2 (D.C. 1992); Newspapers, Inc. v. Metropolitan Police Department, 546 A.2d 990, 993 (D.C. 1988); Barry v. Washington Post Company, 529 A.2d 319, 321 (D.C. 1987).

In order to accord full force and effect to the spirit and intent of the D.C.-FOIA, officials of District of Columbia public bodies are required to construe its provisions "with the view toward expansion of public access and the minimization of costs and time delays to persons requesting information." D.C. Official Code § 2-531; see Washington Post, 560 A.2d at 521; Newspapers, Inc., 546 A.2d at 993. Thus, the policy underlying the D.C.-FOIA favors the broad disclosure of official records in the possession, custody or control of public bodies of the government of the District of Columbia, unless such records (or portions thereof) fall squarely within the purview of one or more of the nine categories of information which are expressly exempted from the disclosure mandate. See Washington Post, supra; Newspapers, Inc., The nine statutory exemptions enumerated in the D.C.-FOIA, which protect certain types of confidential and/or privileged information from disclosure, "are to be construed narrowly, with ambiguities resolved in favor of disclosure." Washington Post, supra.

Items 1, 2, 3, and 4 of the appellant's D.C.-FOIA Request sought the disclosure of information pertaining to the applicants for employment for the Lead Support Specialist and Program Analyst vacancies in OCFO. More specifically, the appellant requested information pertaining to the following: rating and ranking of all applicants; the application package submitted by the successful applicants; a listing of all applicants interviewed; and a copy of the written certification of qualified candidates.

Because OCFO's denial letter did not provide any explanation as to how the exemptions it cited apply to the withheld information, as specifically required by the D.C.-FOIA and its implementing regulations, it is not clear from the record before the Office of the Secretary whether OCFO was claiming that the information regarding the applicants for employment was protected from disclosure under D.C.-FOIA Exemptions 2 or 4, or both.

D.C.-FOIA Exemption 2 protects from disclosure "[i]nformation of a personal nature where the public disclosure thereof would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy[.]"

D.C. Official Code § 2-534(a)(2).

D.C.-FOIA Exemption 4 vests public bodies with discretion to withhold "[i]nter-agency or intra-agency memorandums and letters which would not be available by law to a party other than an agency in litigation with the agency[.]" D.C. Official Code § 2-534(a)(4).

The information that is required to be submitted by job applicants pursuing employment opportunities with the government of the District of Columbia includes personal data such as name, home address, home and work telephone numbers, social security number, and date of birth of applicants; D.C. employment history and availability; residency, citizenship, military service and veterans preference; education, relevant training, professional licenses or skills, and certificates or degrees awarded; and work experience, job qualifications, certain background information, and the applicant's signature. See DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA GOVERNMENT EMPLOYMENT APPLICATION (DC2000), http://dcop.dc.gov/.

The information submitted by the job applicants that was withheld by OCFO is unquestionably "information of a personal nature" within the meaning of D.C.-FOIA Exemption 2.4 In this regard, the subject records contain information related to particular individuals, namely: applicants for employment with the District government. See, e.g., Judicial Watch v. Export—Import Bank, 108 F. Supp.2d. 19, 36 (D.D.C. 2000) ("The first criterion of [the FOIA privacy exemption] is met if the information applies to a particular individual"). As such, OCFO's decision to withhold the information about the applicants for employment from disclosure to the appellant pursuant to his D.C.-FOIA request is required to be evaluated under the standards Construed literally, D.C.-FOIA Exemption 2 yields two preconditions that must be satisfied before a public body can properly invoke the exemption to withhold responsive documents. First, the information must be of a personal nature; and second, the disclosure of such information must constitute a "clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy." D.C. Official Code § 2-534(a)(2).

applicable to the second prong of D.C.-FOIA Exemption 2.

Having determined that the information requested by the appellant about the applicants for employment was information of a personal nature, it is necessary to consider whether the disclosure of responsive records would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy within the meaning of D.C.-FOIA Exemption 2. See United States Department of State v. Washington Post Co., 456 U.S. 595, 602 (1981) ("When disclosure of information which applies to a particular individual is sought from Government records, [it] must [be] determine[d] whether release of the information would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of that person's privacy.").

The propriety of an public body's decision to withhold information of a personal nature from disclosure to a third party pursuant to D.C.-FOIA Exemption 2 was at issue in Hines v. Board of Parole, 567 A.2d 909 (D.C. 1989).

In Hines, the D.C. Court of Appeals affirmed the trial court's grant of summary judgment in favor of the Parole Board which had invoked D.C.-FOIA Exemption 2 to deny an inmate's D.C.-FOIA request for records relating to applications filed by Lorton inmates requesting reduction of their minimum sentences. The court concluded that it "could reasonably be expected to constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy within the meaning of [D.C.-FOIA Exemption 2]" to disclose to the requester "Board records about other Lorton inmates . . . that show why a decision was or was not made by the Board to seek a reduction in sentence." Id. at 913.

During the course of reaching its decision, the court, citing the U.S. Supreme Court's decision in United States Department of

Justice v. Reporters Committee for Freedom of the Press, 489 U.S.

749 (1989), recognized that the determination as to whether personal information contained in public records is protected from disclosure required a balancing of "the privacy interest of those who are the subject of the documents in question or those who may be harmed by their release against the public interest in the release of the documents." Id. at 912.

In Reporters Committee, the U.S. Supreme Court reaffirmed several relevant principles enunciated in its earlier decisions interpreting the extent to which the public interest in certain information warrants an invasion of the personal privacy interests of an individual. First, the court stated that it "must balance the public interest in disclosure against the interest Congress intended the exemption to protect." Id. at 776. Second, the Court intimated that "whether an invasion of privacy is warranted cannot turn on the purposes for which the request for information was made." Id. at 771. In this regard, the court remarked that "Congress 'clearly intended' the FOIA 'to give any member of the public as much right to disclosure as one with a special interest [in a particular document.]'" Id. (quoting NLRB v. Sears, Roebuck & Co., 421 U.S. 132, 149 (1975)). Finally, the court stated that disclosure is in the public interest when it achieves "the core purposes of the FOIA [which is] to contribut[e] significantly to public understanding of the operations or activities of the government." Id. at 775. In elaborating upon this final principle, the court found its decision in Department of Air Force v. Rose, 425 U.S. 352 (1965) to be illustrative.

In Rose, at issue was whether the U.S. Air Force properly redacted the names of cadets from disciplinary hearing summaries disclosed pursuant to a federal FOIA request. Commenting on its decision in Rose, the U.S. Supreme Court in Reporters Committee remarked that "[t]he summaries obviously contained information that would explain how the disciplinary procedures actually functioned and therefore were the appropriate subject of a FOIA request." Id. at 773. Regarding the redaction of the "information that would identify the particular cadets to whom the summaries related," the court opined:

The deletions were unquestionably appropriate because the names of the particular cadets were irrelevant to the inquiry into the way the Air Force Academy administered its Honor Code; leaving the identifying material in the summaries would therefore have been a "clearly unwarranted" invasion of privacy.

Id. at 773-74.

Although Reporters Committee specifically dealt with the privacy rights implicated in the disclosure of law enforcement records under federal FOIA Exemption 7(C) and not with the privacy interests triggered under federal FOIA Exemption 6, the principles enunciated in that case apply to both circumstances. See United States Department of Defense v. Federal Labor Relations Authority, 510 U.S. 487 (1994); Rose, supra, at 372 ("Congress sought to construct [federal FOIA Exemption 6]" to "require a balancing of the individual's right of privacy against the preservation of the basic purpose of the [FOIA] 'to open agency action to the light of public scrutiny.'").

Applying the legal principles enunciated by the court in Reporters Committee to the instant matter, it is necessary to balance the individual privacy interests of the successful candidates and unsuccessful applicants for employment against the extent to which the public disclosure of the requested information "would 'she[d] light on [OCFO's] performance of its statutory duties' or otherwise let citizens know 'what [OCFO] is up to.'"

United States Department of Defense v. Federal Labor Relations

Authority, (DoD v. FLRA), 510 U.S. 487 (1994) (quoting Reporters Committee, supra, at 773).

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA REGISTER

In Core v. United States Postal Service, 730 F.2d 946 (4th Cir. 1984), a case directly on point, the Fourth Circuit considered whether information contained in applications submitted by candidates for employment with the Postal Service ("Service") was subject to disclosure under the federal FOIA personal privacy exemption.

Core, an unsuccessful applicant for multiple System Architect vacancies with the Service, made a FOIA request for "information about the education and automated data processing experience of the five persons selected as Systems Architects and of all other applicants the Service deemed qualified for the position." Id. at 947.

The court, in Core, in balancing the relevant personal privacy interests of the applicants for employment against the public's interest in disclosure, drew a distinction between the privacy interests of successful job applicants and the privacy concerns of unsuccessful job applicants.

With respect to the successful job applicants, the Fourth

Circuit concluded that the disclosure of information about their educational qualifications and professional experience acquired through prior employment would not "constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy." In partially reversing the lower court's decision, the court opined that:

Unlike the district court, we conclude that the commingling of information that characterizes the applications does not justify withholding information about the five applicants who were selected for positions. Their identity is known. The disclosure that they wished to leave their former employment cannot embarrass them, for this fact is now known to their former employers. The information they furnished is not derogatory. It is simply the type of information every applicant seeks to bring to the attention of a prospective employer. In short, disclosure of information submitted by the five successful applicants would cause but a slight infringement of their privacy. In contrast, the public has an interest in the competence of people the Service employs and its adherence to regulations governing hiring. Disclosure will promote these interests.

Id. at 948.

As regards the applicants who were not selected for competitive job openings, the Fourth Circuit, in Core, elaborated in some detail as follows:

With respect to unsuccessful applicants, the balance tips the other way. Even if their names were deleted, the applications generally would provide sufficient information for interested persons to identify them with little further investigation. Though the unsuccessful applicants . . . were deemed qualified by officials who reviewed the files, ultimately they were rejected after interviews by the selecting official. In contrast to the lack of harm from disclosure of the applications of persons who are hired, disclosure may embarrass or harm applicants who failed to get Their present employers, co-workers, and prospective employers, should they seek new work, may learn that other people were deemed better qualified for a competitive appointment. If Core is entitled to information about unsuccessful applicants for a government job, other members of the public, including employers and employment agencies, would be entitled to the same information in this and other instances. (citation omitted)

On the other side of the scale, the public interest in learning the qualifications of people who were not selected to conduct the public's business is slight. Disclosure of the qualifications of people who were not appointed is unnecessary for the public to evaluate the competence of people who were appointed. Indeed, comparison of all applications, may be misleading, because the appointments were made on the basis of both the applications and interviews.

Id. at 948-49.

Based on the above-quoted reasoning, the court concluded that "disclosure of information about unsuccessful applicants for a Service job would be a clearly unwarranted invasion of their personal privacy." Id. at 949.

Similarly, in Barvick v. Cisneros, 941 F.Supp. 1007 (D.Kan. 1996), the court considered the propriety of the Department of Housing and Urban Development's ("HUD") decision to (1) release redacted documents pertaining to the successful applicants and (2) withhold from disclosure all information on unsuccessful applicants. The information disclosed by HUD "pertain[ed] to the successful candidates' educational and professional qualifications, including letters of commendation and awards, as well as their prior work history, including federal positions, grades, salaries, and duty stations." Id. at n. 4. HUD, however, "withheld or redacted the following information:

Home addresses and telephone numbers; social security numbers; dates of birth; maiden names; the names, addresses, and telephone numbers for references; names and family relationships of relatives employed by the federal government or armed services; life insurance; annuitant indicator; retirement plan; reasons for leaving prior employment; and performance appraisals."

The court concluded that "[t]he public interest in disclosure does not outweigh the substantial privacy interest of the successful candidates in the redacted and withheld information" and, therefore, found "that disclosure would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, thereby justifying [HUD's] reliance upon [federal] FOIA Exemption 6." Id. at 1021.

In addressing the propriety of HUD's decision to withhold the information requested concerning the unsuccessful applicants, the court relied extensively on the Fourth Circuit's rationale in Core and concluded that "[t]he privacy interest of the unsuccessful applicants in the withheld information outweighs the public interest as espoused by the [FOIA requester]." Id. Based on its conclusion, the trial judge in Barvick held "that disclosure would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, thereby justifying . . reliance upon Exemption 6." Id; see also Rothman v. United States Department of Agriculture, No. CV 94-8151 WJR (JGx), 1996 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 22716 at *10-12 (C.D.Ca. June 17, 1996) (Information regarding knowledge, skills and abilities of unsuccessful applicants is protected from disclosure because "the Court simply cannot conclude that the public interest in disclosure of the materials requested outweighs the privacy concerns of those individuals who applied and were unsuccessful.").

Based on the persuasive logic of Core, this office concludes that all of the information regarding the unsuccessful applicants for employment is exempt from disclosure under D.C.-FOIA Exemption 2. This office further concludes that the names, professional qualifications, and work experience of the successful candidates is required to be disclosed to the appellant pursuant to his D.C.-FOIA request; however, other private information about the successful applicants, such as home telephone numbers and addresses, social security numbers, dates of birth, marital status, personal references, and all other sensitive identifying information is exempt from disclosure and is required to be redacted from their applications for employment with OCFO.

Items 5, 6, 7, and 8 of the appellant's D.C.-FOIA request sought information regarding the identities of members of the interview and selection panels, and the questions used, and notes kept, by the interview panel members.

Here again, the record before the Office of the Secretary does not indicate whether OCFO relied upon D.C.-FOIA Exemptions 2 or 4, or both, in support of its determination that the records responsive to the aforesaid categories of information were shielded from disclosure.

OCFO's citation, generally, to D.C. Official Code § 2-534(a)(2) and (4) in its letter of denial, as the basis for withholding all of the information responsive to categories 5, 6, 7, and 8 of the appellant's D.C.-FOIA request, without further explanation, was insufficient to justify the withholding of information related to the interview and selection of applicants for the Lead Support Specialist and Program Analyst positions.

In this regard, section 407 of Title 1 of the District of Columbia Municipal Regulations ("DCMR") requires public bodies which deny a D.C.-FOIA request, in whole or in part, to provide both an "[1] explanation of how each exemption applies to the record withheld and [2] a statement of the public interest considerations which establish the need for withholding the record." 1 DCMR § 407.2(b) (June 2001). "Where more than one record has been requested and is being withheld, the foregoing information [is required to] be provided for each record withheld[.]" Id. (emphasis added)

The record before the Office of the Secretary does not contain any information bearing on the regulatory requirements of section 407 of the regulations which implement the D.C.-FOIA.⁵

The apparent purpose of the latter of the aforesaid requirements is to foster discretionary disclosures of otherwise exempt records as a matter of sound administrative discretion in

Therefore, it is necessary to remand this appeal to OCFO for an explanation as to how Exemptions 2 and 4 of the D.C.-FOIA apply to the withholding of the interview and selection information and a statement of the public interest considerations which establish the need for withholding each record responsive to categories 5, 6, 7, and 8 of the appellant's D.C.-FOIA request from disclosure to him, as specifically required by 1 DCMR § 407.2(b).

CONCLUSION

For the reasons set forth above, the present appeal is sustained, in part, with respect to the withholding of information pertaining to the professional qualifications, work experience and education of the successful applicants for employment; denied, in part, with respect to the withholding of all information regarding the unsuccessful applicants for employment; and remanded to OCFO for an explanation as to how D.C.-FOIA Exemptions 2 or 4, or both, apply to support the withholding of the information responsive to categories 5, 6, 7, and 8 of the appellant's D.C.-FOIA request.

Consistent with the discussion above, the appellant is entitled to receive, within seven working days of OCFO's receipt of this decision, redacted application materials pertaining to the successful candidates that were selected for the Lead Support the absence of a compelling countervailing public interest militating against the disclosure of such information.

Specialist and Program Analyst positions that were the subject of his D.C.-FOIA request.

OCFO properly denied the appellant's request for information regarding the unsuccessful applicants for employment.

On remand, OCFO, in addition to providing an explanation as to how the D.C.-FOIA Exemptions 2 and 4 apply to withhold responsive information, shall also address the public interest considerations which establish the need for withholding any records from disclosure to the appellant.

OCFO shall submit its written response to this office within seven (7) working days of its receipt of this final decision and provide a courtesy copy to the appellant.

OCFO is further directed to provide a written certification to the Mayor (via the General Counsel to the Mayor), with a copy to the Office of the Secretary, within ten (10) working days indicating its compliance with this decision, or the reasons for noncompliance with any of the directives herein.

This memorandum opinion constitutes the final decision of the Secretary of the District of Columbia in this matter.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA WATER AND SEWER AUTHORITY

NOTICE OF FINAL LEAD SERVICE LINE REPLACEMENT POLICY

The Board of Directors, ("the Board") of the District of Columbia Water and Sewer Authority, ("Authority") pursuant to the authority set forth in section 216 of the Water and Sewer Authority Establishment and Department of Public Works Reorganization Act of 1996, effective April 18, 1996 (D.C. Law 11-111, §§ 203(3), (11) and 216; D.C. Code §§ 34-2202.03(3), (11) and 34-2202.16, at its regular meeting held on July 1, 2004 took final action to adopt a policy on the replacement of lead service lines in the District of Columbia, as proposed in the "Policy Proposal" of the Notice Seeking Public Comment on Lead Service Line Replacement Policy. The policy establishes the plan of the Authority to have no lead service lines in the public space portion of its water supply system and that the Authority will remove all known lead service lines from the public space no later than September 30, 2010, and replace these lines with EPA-approved service lines. The policy also establishes that the Authority will encourage homeowners to eliminate lead service lines on their properties and will offer homeowners an opportunity to replace the private portion of lead service lines at the Authority's actual cost or at an established fee structure.

The Authority's proposed policy was originally published in the April 16, 2004 edition of the D.C. Register, (51 DCR 4007). The Board of Directors voted after consideration of all comments received to adopt the policy as proposed.

This Lead Service Replacement Policy will be effective when this notice is published in the D.C. Register.

Lead Service Replacement Policy

It is the policy of District of Columbia Water and Sewer Authority ("Authority") to have no lead service lines in the public space portion of its water supply system. Therefore, the Authority will remove all known lead service lines from the public space no later than September 30, 2010, and replace these lines with EPA-approved service lines. In the future, if a lead service line is discovered that was not previously identified and replaced prior to September 30, 2010, the Authority will replace the public space portion of that service line within 90 days of knowing of its existence.

Recognizing the significance of privately-owned portions of the lead service lines which are outside its present legal responsibility, the Authority will also encourage homeowners to eliminate lead service lines on their properties, and will coordinate with and facilitate private and public efforts to that end, including offering homeowners an opportunity to replace the private portion of lead service lines with EPA-approved service lines at the Authority's actual cost or at a fee structure established from time to time by the Authority.
